Realistic overview of labour market

Currently I am told there are plenty of open jobs in the Netherlands for people with my expertise. I am however slightly worried this number will decline due to more advancements in AI technologies, especially in the junior experience level. Despite this I am confident that my skills are still valuable for a wide range of positions.

Study results so far

So far I have consistently passed everything with a good grade.

Team's perspective (do not fill this in, team = team of lecturers)
